

The Little Missenden Festival 2025

Rehearsing for the Little Missenden Festival

Owl class really enjoyed composing and learning a song which was originally based on the theme 'Our Wonderful World, the Weather,' that took a very creative turn. They worked with the composer John Webb, and a variety of professional musicians to create their piece of music. All the practise certainly paid off! Robins and Little Robins were lucky enough to have a sneak preview before the big performance.

Performing in the Little Missenden Festival

Our children had a wonderful time at the performance of the Little Missenden Festival, not only working with professional musicians and composers, but also working with two other schools and performing to their very first large audience!

The key instruments in their composition were the key board, the French horn, the flute and the African thumb piano called an ilimba. There was an extra special performance from the cello representing a tennis ball in an underwater tennis match!
